The Ormsby Fair.

The Ormsby Agricultural Society is hard at work and the exhibit at Carson this year will be a good one. Our friends at the Capital are doing all in their power to aid the Society in its efforts and everything will be done to make the Fair a perfect success. Carson is a pretty place and well arranged Fair ground will add to its beauty. Go in neighbor and do your best.—Journal.

ALL SORTS.

—Wizard Oil at Geo. Thaxter's.
—Fifty miners can get employment in Tuscarora.
—People caught using water at night will be sharply looked after.
—Ex Governor Adams is making considerable money out of his Nye county mine.
—Frank Ayres has been convicted of manslaughter at Los Angeles for killing a babe.
—The Governor will celebrate in Virginia City his own county. This is where he belongs on the 4th.
—Much land is being cultivated in Inyo county without irrigation, an experiment heretofore unthought of.
—There is a sensation in Sacramento over the discovery of a shortage of $23,000 in the State Printing Office.
—Townsend advises the State Prison Warden to stop hunting for fossils at the Prison, but to come in town.
—A large amount of wagons and farming implements, etc., are going out of Carson. This trade increases every year.
—California should run its State Printing Office as we do in Nevada and everything would be straight as a string.
—FOR SALE.—A large roomy residence in the Western part of the city. Fine location. Apply at this office.
—A number of Contra Costa County land owners are subdividing their holdings and selling small farms.
—Yesterday a dispatch was received from Lake View calling for a doctor, as a Chinaman had been badly injured.
—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Company graders are at work grading in the south end of Tustin, Los Angeles county.
—Frank N. Orrin of Los Angeles began suit Wednesday to recover $30,000 damages for slender against R. W. Tacey of Pasadena.
—The Stockton Mail and Sacramento Bee, two papers who talk as they think, say that Mrs. Langtry is a third rate actress with a fourth rate company.
—Six men of Virginia, Nev., were pronounced by a physician Wednesday to show symptoms of trichinosis. They are reported to be convalescing.
—A. F. Alvarado, son of ex-Governor Alvarado, drowned himself in a small drain near Albuquerque, N. M., recently.
He had been gloomy and dependent of late.
—Virginia City is anxious for another bout with Carson on the base ball question. They want a $300 or $500 game. There is always plenty of money in Carson to back on home club.
—Some fine rock has been encountered in the Norris Mine. Mr.
Kirman had some in town yesterday, exhibiting it. It is regular Comstock rock and astonishes those who laugh at the divining rod.
—The California Museum
Association, occupying the E. B.
Crocker Art Gallery at Sacramento, last night resolved that its School of Design would make a large exhibition at the State Fair.
—Mr. Taggart, of the Enterprise, was in the city yesterday. He spent an hour in the APPEAL sanctum, and on leaving remarked that the beer ought to have some ice to go with it, and that the room should be swept oftener.
—Tomorrow at the Opera Hall restaurant, run by Mr. Bryan, there will be a spread of turkey, chicken and other delicacies. Mr. Bryan proposes to inaugurate a class of Sunday dinners that will surpass anything in the city.
—McGlynn's Case.
NEW YORK, June 23d.—The following cablegram was sent to Rome Wednesday to Cardinal Simeoni, Prefect of the Propaganda at Rome:
One hundred thousand Catholics, in a mass meeting held in this city on Saturday, June 18th, denounced the threatened excommunication of Dr. McGlynn, with whom they are prepared to stand, and protest against ecclesiastical interference with the political rights of American citizens. (Signed)

JAMES GAHAN, Secretary.

THE ASSISTANT METEOROL- OGIST.

He Makes a Record of an Earthquake Shock.

Since Night Watchman Roberts has been promoted to the post of Assistant Meteorological Observer he has taken a great interest in earthquake shocks. Yesterday afternoon he was in the State Capitol building, and feeling a little drowsy laid down in the State Treasurer's office on a sofa.

George Richard and Lieutenant Governor Davis happened to be in, when Davis suggested that they give Roberts an earthquake shock.
According to it was arranged that Davis should turn the sofa over while Richard was to stagger round and fall down on the floor just as Roberts woke up. The joke was so good that Davis went out through the building and posted everybody.
He then went in, and getting under the sofa lifted it clear over, rolling Roberts on the floor and piling the sofa on top of him.

Meanwhile Richards had quietly upset a number of chairs and strewn things about the room in good style.

Davis rolled the sofa over on to Roberts, jammed it around a spell and then quietly slipped into the next room.

When Roberts jerked his head out from under the sofa Richard was lying flat on the floor with a lot of books scattered about.

In an instant Roberts pulled out his watch and shouted:

"Steady now! Hold quiet while I time 'er."

Then Roberts grabbed a piece of paper and began to take copious notes of his observations.

Presently everybody came piling into the State Treasurer's room and began to tell their experiences.
They couldn't get much out of Roberts however; he merely remarked:
"Don't disturb me gentlemen, I am taking a memorandum for my report."

At 6 o'clock he laid the following on the desk of his superior officer, Mr. Friend:

Earthquake oscillations at Carson City, Nevada, June the 24th, 1887.
Time, 3:11.
Number of shocks, 9
Duration, 12 seconds.
Course of wave, due East and West.

OLIVER ROBERTS,
Assistant Meteorological Observer
for the Nevada State Capitol Building.

"What's this?" asked Friend.

"Earthquake."

"No earthquake today."

"Pity about that. Don't you suppose I know when there's an earthquake?"

"Well it don't go Roberts, I know better."

"Look here, old boy, you appointed me Assistant Meteorological Observer and empowered me to record the earthquakes. Now if you can't take my word for an earthquake that I personally observe I guess you'd better get some other man. Consider my resignation in."

And Mr. Roberts stalked away, strewing profanity along the side walk as he went.

Kindergarten Exercises.

Yesterday there was a large attendance of parents at Miss Babcock's Kindergarten School to witness the closing exercises of the children. As a rule parents expect all sorts of remarkable things from their own children, but a good many even of the most doting sort were quite unprepared to see their little ones do so well as yesterday. Their exhibitions of work, their singing, drilling, marching, etc., all showed a proficiency not expected in little things from four to six years of age.

Miss Babcock received a shower of compliments for the manner in which she had disciplined these young minds. They were all prettily dressed and looked rosy, bright eyed and happy, and some were placed under great embarrassment at the applause which followed their exhibitions.

—FOR SALE.—A first class square piano. Inquire at this office.

FOR SALE.

Railroad Matters.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company has made arrangements to take freights to and from San Francisco independent of the Central Pacific. To consummate this purpose it has established a line of steamers between Portland, Oregon, and San Francisco. One of the steamers will leave San Francisco for Portland every four days and connect at the latter city with the Oregon Short Line. A freight tariff has been made by the Company to Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Utah and Wyoming. The rates to Utah are virtually the same as formerly over the Central Pacific, but those to Idaho points are materially lower.
The first steamer under the new system left San Francisco yesterday and it is expected that much of the hitherto joint trade of the Central and Union Pacific will go over the route.

It will now be in order for the Central Pacific to become aggressive and carry the war into Union Pacific territory. It is expected that one of the first moves will be the building of the proposed road from this place to Idaho. There is a large extent of territory in Grant and Malheur counties in Oregon, whose natural outlet is Winnemuc-ca, but whose trade will be diverted to the Oregon Short Line unless the new road is built. The territory is rapidly settling up, especially since the swindling operations under the Swamp Land Act have been exposed. All the trade of that great and growing section will be lost to the Central Pacific and to San Francisco unless a branch road from here North is built, although it is much nearer to San Francisco than it is to Portland, and a hundred and forty miles of road from here North would divert its whole trade to the Central Pacific.—Silver State.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our regular correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, June 18th, 1887.— Nearly a week having elapsed since Jay Gould's mysterious visit to this city, and no evidence having appeared of anything having been bought in this locality, all suspicion has died out, and the feeling is growing around that he may have actually come and gone, actuated by similar motives to those that would characterize the movements of other pilgrims to the National shrine.

The only noteworthy incident that transpired during this trip was his reversal of the usual order of things at Mt. Vernon; for instead of being the guest of the management, he monopolized the office of host, and entertained the Superintendent and his Staff, on board his beautiful yacht, in magnificent style; and during the afternoon kept his steam launches busy plying to and from this city for the benefit of all the employees attached to the estate to whom he also extended his hospitalities.

This diversion served, no doubt as a relief from the ordinary routine, through which pilgrims have to be conducted while in charge of the guide.

[The balance of this letter would fill two columns but is not printed all the news contained therein having come over the wires weeks ago.
Our regular Washington correspondent is a man who means well but spends too much time cooling off in beer saloons and running after actresses, to ever make a real live correspondent. We throw out these suggestions to him in the kindest feeling but with no expectation of causing him to change his chronic habits of affiliating with Gambrinus and the Drama.—
ED. APPEAL.]
